

STUDENT TRANSFER STATEMENT

This statement sets out the INTO University Partnerships (“INTO”) position on the facilitation and limitation of student transfers.

Overview

The Higher Education and Research Act (2017) included a provision to ensure that the OfS monitors schemes that are provided by the Higher Education sector to facilitate the transfer of students between courses offered by separate Higher Education Providers (HEPs). Students must be informed of their ability to do this, and have any prior learning or other attainment recognised by a ‘receiving’ HEP upon their transfer to study with them.

The applicability of these requirements to INTO’s provision is limited, for the following reasons:

- Since 1st January 2021, when the UK left the European Union (EU) and EU citizens became ‘visa nationals’ on the same basis non-EU citizens had previously been, INTO’s student body is almost entirely composed of migrants who require a visa to live, work or study in the UK for a period of 6 months or more. It is not possible for students who require a visa to study in the UK to transfer between HEPs during their course of study. Whilst a student doesn’t have to remain studying with their initial Sponsor, leaving a course would invalidate their leave to remain in the UK, which is tied to continuing to study a specific course with a specific HEP as per their visa application. Transferring from this initial provider to a new course with a different HEP would necessitate them leaving the UK and making a new visa application, sponsored by the new HEP, from outside the UK.
- The vast majority of INTO’s courses only last for a single academic year, or part of a single academic year. However, where students leave courses part way through and obtain an offer to study a course at an alternate HEP, an INTO centre may be able to provide students with a letter confirming the number of credits the student has achieved at the point they left their course. This will of course depend on the specific nature of the course being studied, and when assessed coursework or exams are completed etc. INTO students studying ‘integrated’ courses, which involve the student studying the first year of their study plan as preparation for a related period of study with a HEP (who will be an INTO Joint Venture partner university), may also become eligible for credit recognition in the event they want to change course or HEP during their study plan, once they have already completed the INTO-led portion of their study plan. These students could also still need to leave the UK in order to make a new visa application to facilitate a course transfer to a new HEP.

INTO complies with, the principles of facilitating student course transfers and mutual credit recognition, as set out in section 38 of the Higher Education and Research Act (2017) as set out above.
